Specifications

Overview:

The Antec FLUX PRO E-ATX Mid Tower Gaming Chassis is designed for high-performance gaming with its revolutionary F-LUX platform, which optimizes airflow for maximum cooling efficiency. Featuring six pre-installed high-performance PWM fans, this case delivers superior ventilation to keep high-end components running at peak performance. With a dedicated Antec FLUX airflow channel, the chassis enhances GPU cooling through a multi-directional vent design that draws air from the bottom, PSU chamber, and lower sides, ensuring exceptional heat dissipation.

Aesthetically striking, the FLUX PRO combines functionality with style by integrating a premium walnut wood finish on the front panel, creating a refined and modern look that complements any gaming setup. The front mesh design allows for unrestricted airflow, while the top and bottom vents work together to establish a smooth and efficient cooling system. With extensive radiator support, accommodating up to 420mm radiators on both the top and front, this case is ideal for enthusiasts looking to incorporate advanced liquid cooling solutions.

Designed with convenience in mind, the FLUX PRO offers tool-free access with a detachable left-side PSU chamber, making power supply installation effortless. The removable cooling brackets on the PSU shroud and front panel further simplify component installation and customization. With support for E-ATX motherboards up to 285mm wide, this mid-tower chassis provides ample space for high-performance builds, allowing gamers and content creators to push their systems to the limit.

Equipped with modern connectivity options, the FLUX PRO features front-panel access to USB 3.0 ports, a high-speed Type-C 10Gbps port, and a temperature display switch for real-time system monitoring. The built-in ARGB and PWM fan controller provides seamless lighting and fan speed adjustments, ensuring both aesthetic appeal and optimized cooling. With its exceptional airflow, premium design elements, and user-friendly features, the Antec FLUX PRO E-ATX Mid Tower Chassis is a top-tier choice for PC builders who demand both performance and style.
