Description

The Brother HL-L2365DW is engineered for users who require reliable, high quality monochrome printing with low operating costs and flexible connectivity. Its electrophotographic laser engine produces crisp business documents while HQ1200 print technology enhances text and graphics for professional results.

Automatic duplex printing allows double sided printing without manual intervention, helping reduce paper usage while improving workflow efficiency. The 250 sheet input tray supports everyday office printing, while the single sheet manual feed slot accommodates envelopes, labels and thicker media when required.

With integrated wired Ethernet, wireless networking and Wi-Fi Direct, the printer can be shared across multiple users or connected directly to compatible mobile devices without requiring a wireless router. PCL6 printer emulation also provides compatibility with many business applications and managed printing environments.

The compact design makes it suitable for desktops and smaller workspaces while maintaining fast output speeds and dependable performance for daily office printing.
